

Hensley Bound Over to Grand Jury

Last Thursday, in Owsley County District Court the Preliminary Hearing was held for Josh Hensley 29, of Booneville, KY. Josh was charged with Assault 1st Degree – Domestic Violence for allegedly attempting to stab his wife, Andrea Bennett. Josh was also charged with Assault, 1st Degree for allegedly shooting Jason Reed in the back with a 12 gauge shotgun. He is also charged with 4 counts of wanton endangerment because allegedly there were 4 individuals, including minors within the vicinity of the shooting. He was also charged with Criminal Trespass - 1st Degree.

The reason of this hearing was to find if there was sufficient evidence for it to be bound it over to the grand jury.

The first witness called to the stand by the Commonwealth Attorney was Detective Rob Morris from the Kentucky State Police, Post 7. He stated a call came in at approximately 3:04 p.m. From the Owsley County Sheriff's Office asking for assistance in a stabbing/shooting incident on 708 in Owsley County. When he and several other officers arrived on the scene they began their investigation. One trooper interviewed the witnesses, another trooper photographed the scene and Detective Morris walked the scene and gathered information from the other troopers; the Owsley County Sheriff's Office and the Booneville City Police.

Detective Morris interviewed Hensley at the Owsley County Sheriff's Office. He stated that Mr. Hensley went to talk to his wife because she had been gone for several days to ask her to come home. She was staying at her sister's home, Brenda Reed. When he went in, they began talking. Detective Morris stated that Mr. Hensley said that when his wife said she wasn't coming home, he snapped. She went into the living room, he went into the kitchen and got two knives. Detective Morris stated that Mr. Hensley said he wanted to kill her. Detective Morris stated that Hensley said that one of the knives broke so he picked up a tart burner and started hitting her in the head until it broke and then he picked up a piece of it and tried to cut her throat with it. That's when Jason Reed came to the door, came in and Mr. Hensley got off top of Andrea. Detective Morris stated that Hensley said he then went to the bedroom got the shotgun went to the living room saw Jason in the door. Jason begin running and he shot him in the back. He then realized what he had done and he tried to help by rendering aid to him.

No other witnesses were called. Judge William Leach found sufficient evidence to bound the case over to the grand jury. Brittney Oliver, Attorney for Hensley requested that Hensley's bond be amended to $50,000 cash and $100,000 property. The Commonwealth Attorney opposed any and all amendments to the bond which was set at $50,000 cash only. Judge Leach agreed and left the bond as is.

The domestic violence case was also heard between Andrea and Josh Hensley. Andrea was represented by Ms. Samantha Rhodes. Evident was presented to the judge. Sufficient evidence was found by the judge to issue a Domestic Violence Order that will be in place and effective for 3 years. Custody of the minor child was also granted to Ms. Hensley.

Innovative Addiction Recovery Center
Comes To Knott County
August 1, 2014

Kentucky River Community Care along with Recovery Kentucky will begin a new long-term recovery approach with the opening of the Hickory Hill Recovery Center in Knott Co.

"There are so many folks from our region who have been traumatized by addiction, so many families. This is a resource," said Sheila Allen, vice president of Community Care Development and Management, Inc.

The new facility is currently under construction and is expected to be fully operational by December 2014.

Hickory Hill will be located off KY 80 in the Emmalena, Bearville community. The new facility will provide a fresh opportunity for one hundred men to recover from drug and alcohol addiction. The expected length of the program is between 12 and 14 months.

Hickory Hill will be the 11th Recovery Kentucky Center in the state. The center is not only a recovery support system but it is also a housing initiative. The program was designed to help reduce the state's drug dependent population while also resolving some of it's homeless issues; helping people recover from addiction while moving them toward a more productive life.

Hickory Hill will use a recovery program model that includes Peer to Peer Mentorship, which involves program graduates to help those who are gaining their sobriety. Peer mentors assist the staff by teaching daily classes and by reviewing assigned paperwork turned in by participants. Daily living skills training, job responsibilities and practical living experiences will also be taught as part of the program. The program model has been demonstrated successfully by several other centers in KY, which were models for the program, and was named "A Model That Works" by the U.S. Department of Health and Human Services

Class of 2015 (Or part of them) Every year, on the 1st day of school, part of the senior class get together and take a photo. This years class is no different from the rest!

* Sag Hollow's first Glow Ball tournament was held Friday evening and 16 golfers participated. The rainy and wet weather reduced the number of golfers from the expected 30+, but another Glow Ball tournament will be held in the near future. The team of Eric Mason, Noah Noble, Darrell Burch, and Brenda Dooley won the event with a -12 score. The first 9 holes were played under daylight conditions using regular golf balls, and 10 holes were played on an altered course layout after dark. Bright yellow Glow Balls were streaking through the night sky at the course and everyone had a great time. Glow sticks were placed on the tees and on the greens next to the pins so the golfers knew where to hit or putt the ball. If you haven't played a Glow Ball tournament come on out to Sag Hollow for the next scheduled tournament and enjoy the experience.

* The Tuesday league play was won by Matthew Oliver with a score of -3 from his handicap. Matt was the only golfer under par and won by 4 strokes over the closest competitors. He also won the team portion of the league when he and Tracy Noble drew each other as partners and shot a combined score of +2. The closest to the pin $10 gift certificate on the par 3 number 3 hole was won by Deron Mays, and the closest on the par 3 number 6 was Mike Mason.

* The Thursday bi-weekly 9 hole scramble was won by the team of Tim Pennington, Bear Strong, Trey Combs, Bart Patton, and Carl Lewis when they shot a -8 score. The group were 3 strokes better than the closest team to their score. Thursday (August 14) the format returns to the Skins Game format.

* The B&H Apothecary sponsored golf scramble to help raise money and support for those facing Alzheimer's disease will be held this Saturday, August 16. Registration begins at 9:30 a.m. and the scramble will start at 10:00 a.m. For further information call Eric at the clubhouse at 606-593-4653.

"A Hidden Gem" – Sag Hollow Golf Course by Glenmore Jones

The other day, my wife, Carolyn, took me on a tour into the mountains. She wanted to see Sag Hollow. I thought it was a state park or another scenic place she had not visited before. When she informed me it was a 9-hole golf course in Booneville, I perked up. Sag Hollow turned out to be one of the prettiest and exciting 9 hole golf courses I have seen in a while. It has 5 tees on most holes and they are knee knockers. It is on 100 acres carved out of the mountains with water present on 8 of the 9 holes. It plays 6,844 yards from the gold tees and 4,566 from the reds. Course rating for the golds is 73.2/132 and the reds 68.3/118. The course record is 65 from the golds. The 2 most spectacular holes are the 2 par 3 holes, No.3 and No.6. The greens are 100 to 150 feet below the trees. Wow! The distance from the golds is 156 and 243 yards respectively. The No.9 hole had an intimidating tee box up on the mountain and a knee knocker to climb up to. On 3 of the holes you should have a seat belt for the golf cart. It is a breath taking little golf course and worth the $14 fee just to ride the course. When we arrived at the golf course we went into the rustic log cabin pro shop and were greeted by head pro Eric Mason and staff. Eric is a nice young man and an outstanding golfer as well. He was Kentucky State Amateur Champion in 2001 and 2002. He also won the Berea Invitational in 2012 and I'm sure many more. Eric invited us to take a golf cart and take a tour of the course. We graciously accepted his offer. After our wonderful tour of the course, we returned to the clubhouse, thanked our host and headed home. The ride home was a trip down memory lane for me. 76 years ago in 1938, I went to Booneville with the Madison High School Band and we performed at the Owsley County Fair; my sister Jane Hall, and my cousin, John Lee Jones were also in that band. I ran a Honey Krust Bread route in that area in 1951 and 1952 also. On the way home, Carolyn toured down to Heidelberg on the Kentucky River, which I hadn't seen in umpteen years. We also passed hall of famer Earl B. Combs' birthplace in Owsley County. I always considered Charles, Don, Craig and John Combs as friends. It was one wonderful day for me and one of those unexpected joyful times that happen when you least expect it. Wow! Thanks, Matey, you are tops!

Outdoor Truths

by Gary Miller

One of the tools of those who love the outdoors is a knife. There has always been something special about getting a new knife. I see that same satisfaction in my son. He owns several and is never unhappy when he receives another. It's almost a rite of passage when a young man gets his first. Some weaker types cringe at the thought of their son having a knife. I cringe at the thought of them cringing over such a common and natural thing. I have several warm memories of my youth experiences with knives. One of them involved Tom. Tom was a man in his upper seventies and I was only a teenager. Tom was wise and crafty. I was dumb and naive. Tom had more knives than I could ever imagine. Some of them use to be mine until he traded me out of them. At that time, I thought that I had made the smarter trade. Today I know different. Tom couldn't read or write but had more common sense and wisdom than most of the people I knew. He was also a very spiritual man. His ministry involved making sure that each home had been dedicated to the Lord. If it hadn't, he would gather a small congregation and meet at the willing participant's house on a Saturday night. There, someone would give a biblical lesson or preach a sermon, a song would be sung, and Tom would offer a prayer of dedication. Some in my home area are still living in a house that has been dedicated to the Lord by Tom. There were several times that I was the one called on to speak. I learned so much from him. I laugh now when I think about how he would "horse trade" with me. But he was doing so much more than "horse trading." He was growing up a young man. He was teaching me the cunning ways of the world and the caring ways of the Lord and he was not doing it with something that might have caused me to run away. But he was doing it with something that caused me to want to be around him and something that we both loved; a knife.

OWSLEY COUNTY FAIR DAYS
September 2nd thru 8th, 2014

It's that time of year again! Owsley County Fair Days have been set for September 2nd – 8th, 2014. The theme of this year's fair is "Entertainment on Parade".

The Owsley County Cooperative Extension Service will be hosting the exhibits for the county fair at the Owsley County Elementary School Library. Entries will cost .50¢ cents per entry or 3 for $1.00. Prizes will be given for 1st, 2nd & 3rd place for each class. First place will receive $4.00 and a blue ribbon, second place will receive $2.00 and a red ribbon and third place will receive a white ribbon. The entries must fit into one of the categories and classes listed and should not have been entered before. No new classes will be added. Fair entries can be entered on Tuesday, September 2nd, from 8:30 a.m. until 5:30 p.m. or on Wednesday, September 3rd, from 8:30a.m. – 2:00 p.m. All entries will be judged on Wednesday after 2:00 p.m. Ribbons will be placed on winning entries by Thursday morning. The exhibits area will be open for viewing on Thursday from 8:30 a.m. until 5:30 p.m. and on Friday from 8:30 a.m. until right before the parade begins at 11:00 a.m. All entries must be picked up by Friday, September 7th after the parade-4:30 p.m. Be sure when registering that we have your name and address to insure that you will receive your check if you are a first or second place winning exhibitor.

We are following the same guidelines as we did last year. The exhibit items must be made or grown by children if it is entered in their name. The issue in the past has been that items have been entered in children's name but maybe have not been grown or made by them and those items were in competition with other children's items. Adults and 4-H/Youth/FFA can enter any category. The only change is that we have divided the Fine Arts category into age groups.

Clarence and Liza Jane sat at the breakfast table for a long time after they had eaten, and talked about his friend Buck. Clarence had asked Buck to come visit his new home but Buck wasn't physically able to make the trip. Clarence did his best to describe as many small details of his house and the surroundings so that Buck could envision the scenery in his mind. Buck would comment and ask questions of Clarence when he talked about his home in the mountains. Clarence had realized that he not been able to recall several past events for the last year or so. When Buck would retell a story about their time together in the Marine Corps, Clarence had found that many times he was not able to remember the events Buck talked about. It was upsetting to Clarence, but he did not let on to Buck that he did not remember. Clarence could not stop the aging process nor could he stop the memory loss, so he chose to smile and carry on with living out each day to the best of his ability. He appreciated how his daughters Emma and Liza did not fret over his memory loss and insist that he go to a doctor for a cure or to take medicine for his condition. He appreciated how Jake treated him like any other able bodied man. Clarence had met Jake shortly after he decided to build his mountain retreat. They met at the local building supply store and had become fast friends from their first conversation. Clarence was so pleased that Jake and the other men he had met at the supply store did not question why a man at his advanced age would think of taking on such a huge project. It made Clarence feel years younger as he discussed the details of his house and met with a local builder to lay out the plan. Once the ball was rolling and he committed to a date to start construction, Clarence was looking forward to the project. He had not decided initially if he would live there permanently or just visit when he could. He made the decision to build a home for his daughters to retreat to, but then he started entertaining the idea of living there full time. Jake had encouraged him to move there from the very beginning. Jake had come to the construction site shortly after the builder had started and offered for Clarence to stay at his house when he came to check on the progress of the house. Clarence was deeply touched that his friend Jake would open his home to him and had to admit that he was tired of staying in the small motel room just outside of town. From the first time that Clarence spent the night at Jake's house, he felt right at home and felt welcome. It seemed Clarence had found a long lost son that he did not know existed.

New Programs Introduced at OCHS

A goal of Owsley Co. Schools is to have 100% of our Students College and/or Career Ready by the 2017-18 school year. To help better prepare students for college and careers, Owsley County Schools has added a new program called Pathway to Careers. Our students will be given opportunities to job-shadow professionals in our community as part of the school day. Given this is the first year of this program, and it requires gradual integration, only freshmen will participate in the Pathway to Careers program this school year. However, the program will continue with every new group of incoming freshmen as this current group moves to the next program phase and toward graduation. In year two, new freshmen and sophomores will participate, in year three new freshmen, sophomores, and juniors will participate, and of course by year four, all of our students will be engaged in this innovative educational program.

At this point, students may have given little thought to the job that they want to do throughout their lives. This is where the program can help them. It will encourage them to explore their interests and try them out in a work setting. Whether they have an interest in business, nursing, medicine, pharmacy, physical therapy, engineering, farming, teaching, marketing, banking, etc. we will work to find a local professional and business partner that can help students get job-shadowing experience in that area. That is what this program is for; to help students narrow their interests and job choices, to help them find areas of strength, to help students decide on what career/college major they want to pursue upon graduation and to give students the skills needed to work effectively. This program will help our college-bound students decide on a major, but it will equally help those students who decide to go straight into the workforce. We want all of our students to be College and/or Career Ready!

Freshmen Job Shadowing Program Requirements:

-Freshmen students will participate in (4) 2 hour job-shadowing experiences. Job-shadowing hours increase as they progress through high school to 20 full school days during their senior year.

-Freshmen students will also start a Career Portfolio containing Job Shadowing Data, Grades, Attendance Data, Clubs/teams participation, a resume, and other relevant information that will be guided by the program coordinator. This portfolio will build as they advance through the program toward graduation.

Another exciting program to be implemented at OCHS that will work well with Pathway to Careers is a concept called Teleworks. Teleworks will allow students to learn concepts and work skills necessary to be employed by outside agencies. We are already in talks with companies such as UHaul, which may provide high school students at Owsley County to work as customer service representatives via telephone and internet service.

"Developing work skills necessary for our students to become successful is critically important," stated Owsley County Superintendent, Dr. Tim Bobrowski. "The goal is to have students learning businesses' customer service techniques and with this program they will be able to help customers over the phone or the internet, while at school or at home. Providing students real world opportunities via work experience is critical in their success and preparation."

The goal of Owsley County Schools is for our students to have something extra when they graduate to complement their diplomas; the experience, job skills, and communication skills necessary to be successful in the 21st century economy. We already have several local business partners who have committed to provide internships for students in the Pathway to Careers program and we look forward to gaining partnerships from more businesses and professionals in the coming weeks. Also, programs such as Teleworks will give our students a tremendous opportunity as they can gain paid employment and customer service experience that will be essential to their future success in the workforce.

For more information on the Pathway to Careers program, contact Lincoln Spence at the Owsley County Board of Education. Mr. Spence is a native of Owsley County and will be working with students, businesses, and parents in order to help Owsley County's students discover and achieve their goals. The Owsley County Board of Education is looking forward to a great school year full of great opportunities for our students, staff, and community.

Preachers Point by Tim Johnson

DIVORCE

As mentioned last week I received a question from a reader of the Murphysboro American in Murphysboro, Illinois about divorce in the situation of abuse. Last week, I responded with the Biblical relationship between a husband and wife, emphasizing how they should treat one another. This week, to further answer the question we will look at the subject of divorce as outlined in the Scripture. Remember, the Bible also uses the term "to put away" in speaking of divorce.

The first mention of divorce in the Bible is when Moses gives the law (Deuteronomy 24:1-4). If this were the only passage about divorce, it would seem as if God didn't mind divorce for any reason. The reason for divorce in this passage is, "and it come to pass that she find no favour in his eyes, because he hath found some uncleanness in her: then let him write her a bill of divorcement." The passage goes on and explains that the wife may remarry and the only restriction given is that if the woman is divorced from husband number two she cannot return to husband number one.

Then Jesus came along.

In Mathew 19:3-9, when the Pharisees were trying to corner Jesus with his words, there is an interesting exchange. The Pharisees asked him if a couple could be divorced for any reason. He responded by explaining that when a couple marry the two become one and what "God hath joined together, let not man put asunder."

The Pharisees quickly respond with the passage from Deuteronomy; more or less saying divorce is okay for almost any reason.

Christ answers them by informing them of their own hearts and the will of God, "Moses because of the hardness of your hearts suffered you to put away your wives: but from the beginning it was not so." He goes on to explain that adultery is the only acceptable reason for divorce and in such cases the adulterer is not to remarry.

The Apostle Paul, however, gives one more reason for divorce, but only in a particular circumstance. The Apostles taught that believers should only marry other believers (2 Corinthians 6:14-16 as an example).

The question arose among early Christians that if we are to only marry other believers; what is to be done in the situation when someone becomes a Christian and they are already married to a nonbeliever.

Paul gives an answer in 1 Corinthians 7:12-16. The believer is to remain married to the unbeliever, however, if because of the spouses new found faith the unbeliever seeks a divorce, then the Christian, "is not under bondage in such cases: but God hath called us to peace." To summarize this particular circumstance, if a person becomes a believer and their unbelieving spouse divorces them, then the believer is not bound to the marriage.

Now, what about abuse? There is one last passage to consider. Malachi 2:14-16. This passage talks of anyone who deals "treacherously" with his wife. The Hebrew word "bagad" is what is translated as the word "treacherously" here. It means to cover, to act covertly, to pillage, deal deceitfully, offend, transgress, unfaithful. Long story short, if a man has done anything concerning his wife that he must hide; he has dealt treacherously with her. How many women have covered with sunglasses and/or makeup a bruise or a mark left on her body by her husband?

Also, in this passage, God's only remark about divorce is that He hates it (see v16). God makes no remarks here if the wife should divorce or husband or not. It appears that spouse abuse, divorce and really, any trouble in marriage, frustrates God as much, if not more than it does us.

From here on I speak with my heart.

If a woman came to me and told me her husband hit her; I would tell her to leave. Not necessarily divorce, but to leave. If she was walking down a dark street and someone started following her and the threat of physical danger was there, anyone with common sense would agree that she should get out of the area to a place of safety as quickly as possible. I see no difference here.

Can a marriage be saved after physical abuse has occurred? Yes but only through Christ. Behavior basically does not change without a change of heart and God is the only one that can provide an everlasting change of heart inside an individual (Matthew 12:43-45).

Electrifying First Day of School

On the first day of school, students were very surprised when Mrs. Patrick pulled out a Von De Groff generator. She wanted the first day of school to be memorable so volunteers came up and put their hand on the generator making their hair stand on end! "I wanted their first day to be fun and exciting...a preview of what's to come this year!" The students really enjoyed this activity and even had Mrs. Patrick, Ms. Pauletta and Mrs. Little join in on the fun!
